THE FACTS

GER 0021 German Reading 1, 4 cr.
05/15/2023—06/24/2023
Instructor: Dr. Dieter Wältermann
e-mail: lorca@pitt.edu

GER 0022 German Reading 2, 4 cr.
06/26/2023—08/05/2023
Instructor: Dr. Boryana Dobreva
e-mail: boryana.dobreva@pitt.edu

Why take German Reading 1 & 2?

☐ You will discover how to learn German by reading and use your new knowledge and skills for academic research, travel, work, or personal enrichment.

☐ Quickly progress from "beginner to advanced" reading levels in only three months.

☐ Fulfill requirements for the Related Concentration in European and Eurasian Studies or the West European Studies certificates at Pitt, or meet graduate foreign language requirements.

The Details

German Reading 1 & 2 will help you build and advance your reading vocabulary, review essential grammatical structures of the German language, and develop strategies to read and understand unedited German texts from various disciplines, including your own field of interest. In addition to vocabulary, grammar, and reading analysis, you will practice translating a range of texts from the original German into English.

German Reading 1 & 2 are offered entirely online, using Canvas, and will consist of a combination of online and offline activities, participation in online discussions, and individual and peer translation assignments.

This course sequence is only offered once a year in the summer.

The Details

German Reading 1 & 2 will help you build and advance your reading vocabulary, review essential grammatical structures of the German language, and develop strategies to read and understand unedited German texts from various disciplines, including your own field of interest. In addition to vocabulary, grammar, and reading analysis, you will practice translating a range of texts from the original German into English.

German Reading 1 & 2 are offered entirely online, using Canvas, and will consist of a combination of online and offline activities, participation in online discussions, and individual and peer translation assignments.

This course sequence is only offered once a year in the summer.

The Details

German Reading 1 & 2 will help you build and advance your reading vocabulary, review essential grammatical structures of the German language, and develop strategies to read and understand unedited German texts from various disciplines, including your own field of interest. In addition to vocabulary, grammar, and reading analysis, you will practice translating a range of texts from the original German into English.

German Reading 1 & 2 are offered entirely online, using Canvas, and will consist of a combination of online and offline activities, participation in online discussions, and individual and peer translation assignments.

This course sequence is only offered once a year in the summer.

Still have questions?

Contact the instructors